

You are the Questioner!

Your role is to ask and answer 5 thick questions about the reading.

Three of the questions have to be "Green Questions"- questions where the answer is in the book.

One question has to be a "Yellow Question"- questions where the answer is in the book, but you have to search to different parts we have read to answer it.

One question has to be a "Red Question"- a question where the group has to use their background knowledge and what is going on in the text to answer.

Always write down the page number and be prepared to discuss.

"Text Talk" Book Mark

You are the Questioner!

Your role is to ask and answer 5 thick questions about the reading.

Three of the questions have to be "Green Questions"- questions where the answer is in the book.

One question has to be a "Yellow Question"- questions where the answer is in the book, but you have to search to different parts we have read to answer it.

One question has to be a "Red Question"- a question where the group has to use their background knowledge and what is going on in the text to answer.

Always write down the page number and be prepared to discuss.

"Text Talk" Book Mark

You are the Questioner!

Your role is to ask and answer 5 thick questions about the reading.

Three of the questions have to be "Green Questions"- questions where the answer is in the book.

One question has to be a "Yellow Question"- questions where the answer is in the book, but you have to search to different parts we have read to answer it.

One question has to be a "Red Question"- a question where the group has to use their background knowledge and what is going on in the text to answer.

Always write down the page number and be prepared to discuss.